KORINEK, R.

TGM Water Research Institute, p. r. i.

Keywords: water tower – new usage – conversion – industrial heritage

The issue of a new usage of industrial heritage (often referred to the concept of conversion) is the current trend of today. Also, water towers shutdown from water networks and stripped of their original mission can offer instead of decay or demolition attractive alternatives to new life. Treatise loosely based on article Second breath of water towers published by author in 2012.
